How long is the membership contract?

We offer hustle-free month-to-month agreements or long-term leases. The length of the contract for membership depends on the specific plan you choose which can be customized to meet your needs and preferences.

Our flexible plans allow members to choose the length of their contract, whether it be hourly, daily, weekly, or monthly. This allows you to scale your workspace as your needs change over time. In addition, you can upgrade or downgrade your plan to suit your needs.

What is the capacity of the Smokestack Workspace meeting spaces?

We have 2 separate meeting spaces available. Our conference room can accommodate 10 to 15 people and our event space can accommodate 20 to 30 people. There is enough room for chairs and a table, while also providing adequate lighting and ventilation. The tables and chairs can be rearranged and configured to meet your needs.

The meeting rooms include conference tables with chairs, a whiteboard or flipchart for presentations, and audio-visual equipment for video conferencing or screen sharing. The space should also have access to power outlets and Wi-Fi for attendees to connect their devices.

Audio-visual equipment include: large 74-inch smart High Definition televisions; 120-inch motorized projector screen and High Definition ceiling mounted projector; BOSE speaker systems, conference communications systems, microphones, and in-house computers with plug and play options.

Are food and beverages provided for events?

We partner with several quality catering companies and restaurants who can be hired to provide tasty treats for your guests. Complementary coffee is provided on site by Smokestack Workspace.

Is a trial period possible?

Yes, a trial period is possible for you to test out the workspace before committing to a longer-term contract. The length of the trial period may vary depending on the specific membership plan being offered.

We also offer a hourly rental option for individuals who only require a short-term workspace solution.

Who would I be sharing the space with?

As a co-working space, Smokestack Workspace is designed to be open to professionals from any industry who are in need of working space. Therefore, you can expect to share the space with individuals from a variety of professions, including entrepreneurs, freelancers, startups, small businesses, and remote workers. The diversity of professionals sharing the space can offer opportunities for networking, collaboration, and the exchange of ideas. Additionally, the conference and meeting rooms are available for private rental for a desired duration.
